

Second Quarter Anecdote Essay

We've spent second quarter looking at various ways different cultures have used to teach lessons to children and young adults. The Wisdom Literature came in the form of poems, proverbs, maxims, parables, morality plays and anecdotes.

In our modern world, we continue this tradition of teaching children through stories, anecdotes and warnings (Stranger Danger).

For the 2nd quarter essay, you will pick one of the lessons that you learned from the literature and create a modern day version to teach that lesson to someone younger than you. Keep in mind that your AUDIENCE would be a child, not a teenager.

Your version does not need to keep all the literary elements from the original, but you will have to tell me which of the originals your story is based on.
